The Night of 100 Elvises 2012, Baltimore MD

November 21, 2012

1,000 Elvis fans can't be wrong... Can they?

By Jan Ross

Last year, we headed to Sin City for the very first time – we were even referred to as “Vegas Virgins” and this title could not have been more apt. We stared in wide-eyed amazement at people gambling on Easter morning (so shocking!) and we wandered through one incredible hotel after another. But truly one of the coolest things we did during our visit was attending the Cirque du Soleil “Viva Elvis” show. Music! Acrobatics! Lights! As Elvis fans, we were in rock ‘n roll heaven.

But a show that featured only one Elvis is nothing compared to the event that will take place on November 30 and December 2 in Baltimore, MD at the Lithuanian Hall on Hollins Street. For Elvis fans, the “Night of 100 Elvises” is the place to be.

Not a concert but more of a party, the event takes place in three rooms and three levels with entertainment, refreshments, plenty of room for dancing and even reserved seating with a limited number of reserved tables. Reserved tables are in the Ballroom, behind velvet ropes with centerpieces to take home.

The main ballroom will host at least 12 bands and 12 Elvis tribute artists; the Elvis Lounge will offer entertainment in a nightclub style; the Jungle Room will provide more entertainment and more seating. All profits from the event are donated to the Johns Hopkins Children’s Center and the Guardian Angels.

Premium draft beer and soft drinks are included in the ticket price and cash bars will also be available if you prefer cocktails, bottled beer, wine or specialty drinks. Not only that, complimentary All American Cocktail Snack Hour will be from 7:30 PM until 9:00 PM offering Elvis’ favorite snacks (fried peanut butter and banana sandwiches are on the menu, God help us) followed by dessert and coffee. There will also be food for sale including barbecue, hot dogs and more. A complimentary shuttle will be available from the Radisson Hotel at Cross Keys and the Holiday Inn – Inner Harbor from 6:30 PM to 2:30 AM.

An annual highlight of the event will be an ice sculpture of Elvis with his guitar carved by Art HongPong, son of Olympic gold medalist, Vivat HongPong.

Tickets: General Admission tickets are $55.00. Reserved seating is $80.00 per chair. A table for 10 is $800.00, plus the USPS Priority mailing cost of $6.00 per mailing. Reserved Tables are available only in advance & only by mail.

Location: Lithuanian Hall, 851-3 Hollins Street, Baltimore, MD 21201-1003
