So you have been searching all over town for the perfect cowboy gift.

You know, because you have so many friends who are cowboys.

Or maybe you just think the idea of a cowboy gift is a unique and fun item for purchase for that special someone. Or possibly the idea of that special someone in cowboy boots and chaps is...sorta cool.

Yes. It really exists.

The fact that the new movie version of "The Lone Ranger" is coming out soon may be one reason that cowboy regalia is popular now. Or maybe it's always been popular and those of us who think of Roy Rogers when someone says "cowboy" are just out of the loop. The lariat loop, that is, of course.

Whatever your reason for looking for that special gift, I have the perfect location where you can purchase it. The Las Vegas Convention Center will be hosting the Cowboy Christmas Gift Show daily from December 6 – December 15. Hundreds of vendors – who knew so many people bought cowboy Christmas gifts – will be offering tons of unique gifts and your favorite cowboy stars will be on hand to sign autographs.

My only reaction to this information is there are still favorite cowboy stars?

Apparently so.

A highlight of the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo also taking place in Las Vegas, the Cowboy Christmas Gift Show is the longest running and only original gift show of this event. There will be a free shuttle from the rodeo right to the show each day. Vendors will offer a variety of items including jewelry, western wear, boots, furniture, art, handmade crafts and pottery as well as Official Wrangler National Finals Rodeo merchandise.

Over 3,000 square feet of show floor will host over 400 vendors from the United States and Canada and so make sure you wear your most comfortable cowboy boots to do your cowboy Christmas shopping.

Because you know you must have cowboy boots if you are going to shop here.
